COUNTY BOARD

Meets in Special Session and Hears Encouraging Reports.

Pleasing Programme Arranged For St. Patrick's Day Celebration.

Emmet Slattery Accepts Invitation to Deliver the Address.

MUSICAL AND LITERARY FEATURES

The County Board of the Ancient Order of Hibernians held a well attended special meeting Monday night to hear reports from the committees arranging for the celebration of St. Patrick's day. President Patrick Sullivan presided and each of the four divisions was represented. This year the celebration will not be on as extensive a scale as in some gone by, owing to the fact that it was impossible to secure any of the large theaters for the night of March 17. Nevertheless a pleasing programme is being arranged, one that will give entire satisfaction to all who unite with the Hibernians in doing honor to Ireland's patron saint. The announcement that Emmet Slattery has accepted the invitation to deliver the principal address will be hailed with delight by the hosts of friends of that sterling young Irish-American lawyer. Mr. Slattery is an orator of no mean ability, and there is little doubt but that his subject will be ably and eloquently presented. Upon several occasions he has addressed large meetings of the Young Men's Institute upon Catholic topics, always sincere and earnest, the logic of his argument giving evidence of deep thought and study.

President Sullivan stated the purpose for which the meeting had been called and read a letter from Congressman Sherley promising his attention to the bill pending in Congress for the erection of a monument to Commodore Jack Barry, father of the American navy.

Chairman Tynan reported the arrangements thus far made for the celebration of St. Patrick's day, which will take place at Liederkranz Hall. All those who had been requested to take part in the entertainment had cheerfully consented, and the committee promised a programme that would give entire satisfaction. It will be musical and literary in character, consisting of solos, duets, recitations, a grand chorus and the address above alluded to. The price of admission was fixed at twenty-five cents, and tickets will be sold only at the door. Among those on the programme will be some of our best known people, therefore the people should assist in honoring Ireland's patron saint by packing Liederkranz Hall on the night of March 17.

Secretary Pat Welch was instructed to send special notice to every member of the order of the invitation to attend St. Patrick's church in a body on Sunday, March 13, and there approach holy communion. It is the wish of both county and division officers that every Hibernian in Louisville respond to the invitation and be present at the 6:30 mass on the morning indicated.

State President Keenan, when called upon, made quite an interesting talk on the work now being done by the order here and elsewhere. He expressed himself as gratified with what he had heard and complimented the committee for their excellent report. The State executive urged as many as could do so to attend the meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary and give the women all the encouragement possible. On behalf of the committee arranging for the reception of Miss Maud MacCarthy and the concert to be given at the Auditorium on Easter Monday night he invited all present to the general meeting to be held Sunday night. Messrs. Joe Dougherty, State Treasurer George Butler, Joe McGinn and Owen Keenan were among those who took active part in the deliberations, and when the adjournment was taken it was to meet again on Sunday evening, March 13, when all who will take part in the St. Patrick's day celebration will be there to meet the committees and receive their final instructions. This last meeting will be an open one and all who desire to attend may do so. The complete programme for March 17 will appear in next week's issue of the Kentucky Irish American, together with the names of all who will take part.

RELEASED FROM SUFFERING.

A most beautiful Christian life was closed last Sunday morning when Mrs. Patrick Lally, residing at 2214 Portland avenue, passed to her eternal reward, after an illness lasting several months. Her life was one of faith, hope and charity. Deep and strong were her faith and hope, but brighter and broader was her charity—that tender love for God which shone so beautifully in her love for others. This proclaimed her the true Christian lady in the best sense of the word. Mrs. Lally was gentle and refined, possessing the virtues and qualities that go to make the perfect woman. In her home she was a devoted wife and loving mother, while among her friends she was loved by all who knew her, and her memory will ever breathe the fragrance of her sweet life ended all too soon. Besides her husband, the well known inspector for the Louisville Railway Company, four children survive, and to them we tender heartfelt sympathy. The funeral took place from St. Cecilia's church with high mass of requiem, at which there was a large attendance of mourning friends.

UNITED IRISH LEAGUE

Sends Conor O'Kelly, M. P., to Organize More Branches.

Conor O'Kelly, member of Parliament for the northern division of Mayo, was due to arrive in New York yesterday to resume the work of organizing branches of the United Irish League throughout the United States. This was the work so effectively begun by William Redmond and continued by Joseph Devlin a year ago. O'Kelly is sent out at the request of the officers of the United Irish League of America, who are desirous of extending the organization in sections of the country where it has not yet been established. Now that the Irish party has placed the home rule issue in the forefront of the programme and intends to make it the supreme question at the general election, which is expected within a few months, it is deemed necessary that the organization in the United States should be placed in the best possible position to render assistance to the Irish party and the United Irish League in Ireland. The selection for the carrying out of the work is an excellent one. O'Kelly lived in America for some years before he was elected to Parliament. He was born at Claremorris, County Mayo, in 1873, and received his education in the national schools of the district and later in Dublin. He is a newspaper man by profession and is a capable and eloquent speaker. O'Kelly was elected a member of the Mayo County Council for the district of Claremorris in April, 1899, immediately after the passage of the local government act of the preceding year. Although one of the youngest, if not the youngest member of the council, he was made its Chairman and has acted in that capacity since. He is President of the South Mayo Executive of the United Irish League and a member of the National Directory of that body. He was elected member of Parliament for North Mayo at the general election of 1900 and has since been acting as one of the Secretaries of the Irish Parliamentary party. Arrangements are being perfected by the officers of the United Irish League in America to enable him to address gatherings of his countrymen all over the United States. He will probably stay a couple of months.

MAN AND BOY

Interesting and Instructive Lecture by Dr. Michael Casper.

The parlors of Mackin Council were packed Monday night when President Shelley introduced Dr. Mich. Casper, who delivered an interesting and instructive lecture, taking for his subject, "Man as Father of the Boy." First illustrating the fact that parents unfortunately do not make companions of their children, he spoke on the difference it would make in the child where the opposite is the course pursued. Their little minds, he said, develop earlier than the average man gives credit for, and when they begin their innocent inquiries parents should answer very carefully and always truthfully, as the impressions then made were the most lasting. The policy of deceiving children is too often indulged in and with direful results, and the knowledge that later comes to boys through street corner associates is largely responsible for the physical and mental wreckage of many young men. His address received very close attention throughout and was given generous applause.

One new member was obligated and three applications received. Clarence Zook announced that the next lecture would be given on Monday, March 28. Henry Lichtefeld was reported well, leaving none on the sick list. There was no business of public importance, but after Lent it is expected the new administration will get down to work and stir things up for the new building and other improvements.

JEFFERSONVILLE.

The Hibernians of Jeffersonville will have a big celebration on St. Patrick's day. A feature will be the reappearance of the Hibernian Dramatic Club, presenting an Irish drama in the evening. For some weeks rehearsals have been held, and the company, composed of well known and talented young women, will give a performance that will be well worth witnessing. The Jeffersonville division has generously donated the proceeds to the building fund of St. Augustine's church, which was some time ago destroyed by fire. A bazaar will be held for the church at Speith's Theater the last two weeks in April.

GREATLY PLEASED.

Miss Katie Smith, who removed from Louisville to San Francisco last year writes friends here that she is greatly pleased with the Golden Gate city. She has a fine position and delightful surroundings, and it is not likely that she will soon visit Kentucky.

ENCOURAGING

Meeting to Arrange For Coming of Irish Queen of Violin.

Indications That Hibernians Will Fill Auditorium April 4.

Thomas Walsh Elected Chairman and Miss O'Connell Secretary.

ANOTHER MEETING TOMORROW NIGHT

In response to the announcement in last week's Kentucky Irish American there was a splendid gathering at Hibernian Hall on Sunday afternoon. The assemblage was called to order by County President Patrick Sullivan, who stated that the meeting had been called by the Executive Committee having charge of the Maud MacCarthy musicale, and that as nearly all the local Catholic societies had representatives present he would entertain a motion for the election of a Chairman.

Thomas Walsh, the well known lawyer, was placed in nomination by Deputy Bailiff Mike Tynan, his election being unanimous. Miss Ella O'Connell, Recording Secretary of the Ladies' Auxiliary, was elected Secretary. Chairman Walsh in a few well chosen words thanked those present for the honor bestowed upon him, and then requested County President Sullivan to state the progress made by the various committees in charge of the entertainment.

The County President told how everything was being arranged for the musicale, which was under the auspices of the Ancient Order of Hibernians and for the benefit of the orphans. The Auditorium had been secured, tickets were being distributed and sold rapidly and the committees were meeting regularly. The Executive Committee, he said, was in receipt of numerous testimonials and favorable musical criticisms of the performances of Miss MacCarthy, and it was evident she had earned the title of "Irish Queen of the Violin." This meeting was to arouse enthusiasm and to hear suggestions from those present, so that the Irish-Americans of this city and all others who were anxious to assist the Hibernians in raising a sum of money for the orphans could pack the Auditorium on Easter Monday night as it had never been filled before. It was his opinion that the Louisville Catholics would demonstrate by their presence their appreciation of a first-class musical entertainment. The Hibernians had the approval of the clergy, some of whom would have been present but for the afternoon services.

Chairman Walsh told how the entertainment was first thought of by one of our leading clergymen; that the Hibernians had been honored by being requested to have it under their management; that some of the priests were taking an active interest and were meeting regularly with the Executive Committee. State Secretary William T. Meehan, the next speaker, aroused considerable enthusiasm, and related how it happened that Kentucky would be honored by a visit from the famous artist. He also told how she had been received in Boston and the reception arranged in her honor by the Mayor and leading men and women of that city. In conclusion he urged all to take an active interest in the arrangements and to endeavor to prove it by more than filling the Auditorium and show that the Irish people have a love for music, that they are glad to honor the talented young lady from the Emerald Isle and at the same time help the orphans.

Deputy Bailiff Mike Tynan offered some good suggestions regarding the sale of tickets for such a charitable purpose. Through his official duties he comes in contact with many sad cases, where children are destitute when made orphans. These are turned over to the Board of Children's Guardians and are then presented to the Very Rev. Father Cronin, who arranges for their admission to either St. Thomas' or St. Vincent's Orphan Asylum.

State Treasurer George Butler declared that all signs indicated a grand success. There was already a great demand for box and reserved seats, which could be secured for the tickets now being sold.

Miss Maggie Coughlin, one of the most active members of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Ancient Order, when asked for an expression of her views concerning the musicale and concert, replied that never before had she attempted to make a speech, but would say she had never known the Hibernians to make a failure of any work they had undertaken, and was sure they would not in this instance. She thought the prices were reasonable, that the entertainment would be well attended and offered the suggestion, which was heartily concurred in, that it would be very appropriate for the Ladies' Auxiliary to arrange to entertain Miss MacCarthy while in Louisville and show her Kentucky Irish hospitality. The last suggestion met with much applause.

Miss Ella O'Connell, the efficient and painstaking Secretary, concurred with Miss Coughlin, and said she knew the ladies of their auxiliary would assist in every way in their power to make the affair both a social and financial success. Miss Lillie Callahan, the Vice President, Miss Anna Rihl and others of the auxiliary were called upon and expressed themselves greatly interested. Their work will soon be manifest to the Executive Committee.

John Hennessey, President of Division 4, expressed surprise that there was not a larger gathering, but was glad to note that the ladies from his part of the city were there in large numbers, and declared he was sure Limerick would be well represented at the Auditorium on Easter Monday night.

Joe Cooney, Vice President Division 3, was of opinion that the matter had been thoroughly discussed, that the time for words was passed, that it was now the time for action and the sale of tickets. State President Keenan and Martin Cusick, who were late in arriving, were received with generous applause. Both responded with spirited and cheering talks. Messrs. William C. Smith, Patrick Liston, Peter Cusick, John McCue, Joe Doherty and Capt. Jerry Hallihan were called upon and expressed their views. All the speakers were generously applauded, and if the meeting lacked anything in numbers it was made up in enthusiasm and kind words for the orphans.

Upon motion the meeting adjourned to meet tomorrow night at 8 o'clock, and all ladies and gentlemen of the city are extended a cordial invitation to be present.

MEETS WITH FAVOR.

Movement to Organize Irish Choral Society Takes Shape.

An enthusiastic meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Ancient Order of Hibernians was held Wednesday night, Miss Mary Cavanaugh presiding. The movement to organize an Irish-American choral society was given new impetus, and meetings will be held for that purpose until a class of at least fifty good voices is secured.

Miss Maggie Coughlin reported the proceedings of last Sunday's general meeting, urging a big attendance at the one to be held tomorrow night, and created much merriment by calling the attention of the young ladies to the Leap Year privileges they enjoyed. Mrs. Joseph Cunningham pointed out the benefits to be derived from more frequent open social meetings, and made a number of wise suggestions. The three local State officers were present and had kind words for the ladies. Treasurer Butler distributed tickets for the concert for the orphans, and Will Meehan expressed the hope that the ladies would tender Miss MacCarthy a formal reception during her visit. The remarks of Presidents Keenan and Sullivan were also well received. When the business of the evening had been finished Miss Julia Kelly proceeded to the piano and vocal and instrumental solos were rendered by Mrs. Joe Cunningham, Miss Mary Corcoran, Miss Julia Kelly and attorney Thomas Walsh. The meeting was an enjoyable one and adjourned at about the same hour that the divisions do.

CINCINNATI

Suggested For Great Gathering of Young Men's Institute.

Council 164 has appointed a committee of five to work in co-operation with the committee of Council 163 in connection with the recently suggested central initiative. Cincinnati is the most advantageous point for the proposed gathering. Louisville, Terre Haute, Indianapolis, Wapakoneta, Zanesville, Pittsburg and vicinity, Lexington and Frankfort form the outer line of a territory from which cheap excursion rates on Sunday can be secured into Cincinnati, and inside this territory there are a great many councils of Young Men's Institute. It has been suggested that each council will have its candidates prepared for initiation into the second and third degrees, and this the local committee will discuss in detail. Expressions so far made are favorable to the affair. As the convention of the Ohio jurisdiction takes place this year in Rosnoke, councils in the jurisdiction will be free to give the movement their heartiest support. The dates for the convention of the Kentucky jurisdiction and the Indiana jurisdiction can be noted to prevent a competition of interest between both events.

RESIGNS AS MATRON.

Miss Elenora Schaulie, for the past year the efficient and popular matron of the Catholic Woman's Club, retired from active work Tuesday, having declined to accept the place for another year. The club is greatly indebted to her for its success, and the members are all glad that, while her connection will not be active, she will still be interested in its work and welfare. Reports submitted at the annual meeting were very gratifying, and all indications point to another successful year. The ladies are resting now, but there will be something doing after Lent.

PROUD FATHER.

There is no prouder man in the West End than John A. Nelligan, who has been deluged with congratulations on the arrival of a young son, the perfect image of his genial and handsome papa.

WORLD WONDER

For Many Years Will Be the Louisiana Purchase Exposition.

Brief History of Enterprise For Kentucky Irish American Readers.

Steady Vote Being Cast in Our Great Popularity Trip Contest.

STATE RETURNS WILL SOON ARRIVE

The Louisiana Purchase Exposition to be held in St. Louis, beginning April 30 and continuing until the end of December of this year, will be the greatest exhibit ever held in the world. It will eclipse the Chicago Exposition of 1893 in every way—in point of magnitude, attendance, extent of exhibits and in every detail—making the Chicago Exposition look small. This statement is not made without advisement. Commissioners from every State in the Union, from foreign countries and from every nation in the civilized world have said, after looking over the St. Louis Exposition grounds and buildings, that the coming show will be the wonder of the world for many years to come and that nothing like it will probably be attempted again for a century.

The Kentucky Irish American wants its readers to appreciate the magnitude of this great enterprise whether they participate in its prize contest or not, and a brief history of the aims and objects of the fair will no doubt be interesting and instructive, as many people do not understand why the fair is being given. Everybody knows that the Chicago fair was to commemorate the discovery of America by Columbus.

The St. Louis Fair is to celebrate the hundredth anniversary of the purchase of the so-called Louisiana Territory by the United States from France. Few people know that from the territory thus acquired under this purchase fourteen States and Territories have been carved. All this was accomplished without bloodshed. The States and territories now in the Union and acquired through the purchase are Missouri, Oklahoma, Arkansas, part of Minnesota, Wyoming, Indian Territory, South Dakota, Nebraska, Louisiana, Montana, Iowa, Kansas, Colorado and North Dakota. For this vast territory the United States paid Napoleon $15,000,000.

The St. Louis Exposition will entail an expenditure of at least $60,000,000 or about four times as much as was paid for the entire territory acquired under the purchase. The Exposition grounds cover over 1,200 acres. This is enormous when considered in comparison with former world's fair exhibits. The Chicago Exposition, which was considered the wonder of the world, only covered 633 acres, and the Paris Exposition of 1900 only 336 acres. The St. Louis Exposition will have under roof 128 acres of floor space, compared with Chicago's twenty-eight acres.

There are so many other things to be said about the St. Louis World's Fair that it might be considered superfluous and would take up many columns to describe. It is not necessary now to enter into things.

The Kentucky Irish American is particularly gratified, however, to note that the State of Kentucky is officially represented at the fair, and has one of the finest buildings on the Exhibition grounds. The exhibit of Kentucky at this fair will be a credit to the State, and visitors from Louisville and the State at large will be proud of the high position taken by the Commonwealth.

The Kentucky Irish American is willing to send some of its readers to this fair free of charge. With each subscription received you can cast fifty votes for the man and wife, single lady or single gentleman of your choice, and those receiving the highest number will be given railroad fare and a week at the Lindell Hotel free of cost. The contest will not close till July 4, so that all have an equal chance to win the great prize. Begin now to get new subscribers, and every dollar paid in entitles the voter to fifty ballots. A big vote will soon arrive from Covington, Lexington, Frankfort, Henderson, Paducah, Bowling Green, Winchester, Owensboro and other cities, and some startling surprises may result.

The contestants this week stand in the following order:

WAYS AND MEANS

Suggested to Increase Membership of Catholic Knights.

Tuesday night the newly appointed Membership Committee of the Central Committee held its first meeting, those present being Supreme Trustee Joe McGinn, State President Harry Veeneman, State Secretary John Score, Peter Reising, of New Albany, and Albert Martin, Secretary of the Central Committee, William M. Higgins being the absent member. The meeting was called for the purpose of discussing and suggesting ways and means to increase the membership of the Catholic Knights of America in Louisville and Kentucky.

Just now a number of the Louisville branches are gaining new members, and there is every likelihood that Kentucky will show a net gain at the next State convention, notwithstanding the heavy death rate of the past year. After full discussion it was decided to recommend that branches hold frequent social public meetings, when the objects and work of the great Catholic fraternal organization could be more fully set forth to those who are carrying no insurance for their wives and children.

Another suggestion that met with hearty approval was that hereafter all initiations take place at the meetings of the Central Committee, and that the obligation be conferred in accordance with the ritual adopted by the Supreme Council. The committee appears to have gone to work in earnest, and it is almost certain its recommendations will be concurred in at the Central Committee meeting next Friday night.

BANQUET AND REUNION

The Trinity Council Members Looking Forward to a Great Event.

The annual banquet and reunion of Trinity Council, the great event of the year in Young Men's Institute circles, will take place this year on Thursday night, April 7, and the members are looking forward to that date with no little interest. The list of toasts is being arranged, and among those who will respond are some of our best known and most eloquent Catholic gentlemen. The committee in charge have had experience and will strive to make this affair the greatest in the history of the council. It is expected covers will be laid for about 300 persons.

Trinity Council held its usual weekly meeting Monday night, President Conney presiding and a large number of members present. Two applications were received and referred and the usual amount of routine business was transacted. Joseph Piazza delivered his address on "Coffee," and was warmly congratulated for the information he imparted. He handled his subject ably and well, and made plain to his hearers that what he did not know about this great morning beverage was of no value. And besides he told how the wife could make coffee that would keep the husband in good humor all the day.

Next Monday evening the address will be delivered by Frank A. Lenz, the well known German lawyer. His subject has not yet been announced, but there will doubtless be a large number present to hear him.

MOURN HER DEATH.

Like the rosebud glistening with diamond dewdrops, unfolding its beauteous leaves to catch the kiss of the morning sunshine, but ruthlessly crushed by the despoiler's hand ere it reached the fullness of its bloom, was the untimely death of Miss Mary Glenn, which occurred Monday morning at the home of her father, Michael Glenn, Twelfth street. Young and beautiful, with all those priceless gifts of heart and mind that make one charming, she was quiet and reserved, caring naught for anything in this world but to give pleasure to those she loved so devotedly. A true Christian, she was most edifying at all times and was a beautiful model for young ladies. A devoted child of Mary, the diamond of maidenly modesty so rare shone brilliantly on her chaste brow and formed the grandest adornment of her beautiful character. True to all the relations of life, she was a devoted daughter, an affectionate sister, a kind and trusted friend—a credit to her name and an honor to the church which she loved so well. As the rose is sweetest when crushed, her memory will shine all the brighter for the gloom of her absence, as a star illumining the darkness of a stormy night. Her funeral was one of the largest seen at the Sacred Heart church for some time. Father Walsh celebrated the solemn mass of requiem and preached a sermon that was consolatory to the bereaved relatives.

THE LAW

And Its Application to Question of Free School Books.

Kentucky Statutes Make Ample Provision For Indigent Children.

Better to Buy Bread and Coal For the Suffering Poor.

CHANGE WOULD WORK AN INJUSTICE

The bill introduced into the Legislature to make the taxpayers of the city of Louisville pay $15,000 a year for school books for children attending the public schools is an extraordinary and reprehensible attempt to provide a "graft" for some school book publisher and to bribe pupils to leave private schools. The law already provides that books shall be furnished free to needy and indigent children. The Kentucky statutes, section 4,405, provides as follows:

"It shall be the duty of each County Superintendent, before the opening of the schools each year, and from time to time, by personal observation or from Trustees and teachers and otherwise, to ascertain the number and cost of text books upon each of the common school branches needed by the indigent children of each district and of the county for use in the common schools, and shall report to the County Judge the number and kind of books needed, when the County Judge shall purchase the books and pay for them by an allowance made by the Fiscal Court of the county; the County Judge shall turn them over to the County Superintendent for distribution, taking receipt for the number and value of the books, but the cost of said books shall not exceed in the aggregate $100 in any county per annum. It is hereby made the special duty of the County and City School Superintendent of common school to report to the County Judge the names of all such indigent children furnished them by Trustees, and to see that the provisions of this section are faithfully executed."

No child therefore can now be excluded from the schools for want of books. That is far enough for the taxpayers to go. To give free books to the children of the rich and to others abundantly able to buy books at the expense of the taxpayers is simply outrageous. Somebody with a sinister hidden purpose or some greedy corporation must have started this scheme and must have imposed upon those who have presented it to the Legislature.

Every man that pays the rent of a house indirectly pays the taxes on the house. The landlord includes the taxes and repairs in the rent. Hence the poorest people are paying taxes even if they do not know it. Nine-tenths of the taxes are paid by poor people. To make such people buy books for the rich or for people with ample means to buy their own books is outrageous injustice. It would be just as reasonable for the poor to buy the clothes and shoes of rich children. There is a good argument for making education free to all without discrimination, but there is no argument for giving clothes, shoes or books to the children of parents well able to pay for such things. It would be better to spend $15,000 a year to buy bread, coal and raiment for the suffering poor than to spend that money in buying books for children that already live on the fat of the land.

This bill, if not pressed by greedy corporations that manufacture books for profit, must be pressed by bigoted men who want to close private schools. It is a mean and cowardly blow aimed at the Catholic schools. It is an attempt to bribe Catholics to leave their own schools, supported by their own money, and to come to schools where all sorts of "goodies" are passed around free to poor and rich mainly at the expense of the poor tax payers of the city. Catholics now, in obedience to their conscience, submit to a double tax to give their children a Christian education of their own liking; to ask them also to buy books not for the indigent, who get them free, but for the rich, who can buy all they want, would be a shameful injustice. City taxes are already heavy enough. To increase them needlessly would be a great wrong.

As was stated in last week's issue, the measure is doomed, not enough time now remaining to enact it into law.

HEARTILY RECEIVED.

Division 1 of the Ancient Order of Hibernians of Jeffersonville held a rousing meeting Tuesday night and were given a surprise visit by the State President and State Treasurer of Kentucky, Thomas Keenan and George J. Butler. The visitors were given a hearty welcome by President Gleason and the members and were interested in all that transpired. They say the Jeffersonville division is an energetic and up to date body of men, and is not behind any of those in the Falls City. Announcement was made of the great Irish musicale on Easter Monday night, and the invitation they presented was accepted by unanimous vote.

TOOK WRONG VIEW.

The Kentucky Irish American would kindly ask Joseph Berning, the genial and watchful editor of the Catholic Knights' Journal, to read again its report of the meeting of the Louisville Central Committee, wherein reference was made to Major General Kadeski. There was no reflection whatever upon that distinguished and honorable gentleman. Neither did we put him down "as a selfish dealer in women's skirts, who travels up and down the country, offering skirts in the one hand and insurance rates in the other, one who is using the order to further his own ambition, and who, in short, can not be trusted." Nothing that has been published in the Kentucky Irish American can be given such a meaning. Perhaps Editor Berning only read the head lines and took the rest for granted, or it may be that he was rushed in getting his pages ready for the press. Our columns have ever been at the service of the Catholic Knights of America, especially here in Kentucky, and never have we failed to be impartial and truthful in chronicling the doings of that great order, which we sincerely hope will continue to grow and flourish. In view of the foregoing, it seems to us that our good friend Berning should make the amende honorable by publishing in full the article of the Kentucky Irish American to which he so spiritedly alluded. Joe is all right, therefore we believe he will do this simple act of justice.

SAME OLD STORY.

It seems that England's treatment of Ireland will this year be but a repetition of the old, old story of cruelty and injustice. Recently in the House of Commons John Redmond, leader of the Irish Parliamentary party, attacked the whole system of government in Ireland, and contended that there was no solution of the problem but home rule. He said that for the benefit of the Government of today, as well as for the benefit of the Government of tomorrow, who might be hugging the comfortable delusion that they could obtain Irish support in an alternative policy.

Secretary Wyndham, in reply, said that instead of all their difficulties disappearing, if Ireland had home rule, it would, as an instance, be very difficult, if not impossible, for Ireland to carry out a financial operation such as that of last year. With regard to a Catholic university, the Government did not purpose to bring in a bill dealing with that question. Ireland required greater opportunities for higher education, but he could not obtain these until there was substantial agreement between all parties interested.

Thus it will be seen there seems little prospect of favorable legislation at this session, but if the Irish party stand together they may be able to force the Government to go before the people. England will always have trouble until she treats Ireland right. To do this she must grant home rule.

The Kentucky Legislature will adjourn sine die at noon on Tuesday, March 15. This session has been free from anything having the appearance of scandal until within the past week, when committees were promptly appointed by both the House and Senate to investigate newspaper charges that are apparently without foundation. Harmony has prevailed between Democrats and Republicans, and the passage of the Capitol appropriation will specially mark the members, who are entitled to much honor for their action.

The Knights of St. John are to meet in general convention in June at Peoria, Ill. That city is making preparations, even at this early date, to give the Knights a grand reception. The twenty-sixth annual gathering is expected to go down in history as one of the most magnificent and most important conventions of the order. There are several fine commanderies in the Falls Cities, and they will make a splendid showing if they decide to attend.

Boss Sapp has met his Waterloo. Control of the Republican organization in this Congressional district was wrested from the former Collector of Internal Revenue at a meeting of the Republican County Committee held Monday night. Sapp is now a "dead one," and that bespeaks greater harmony and a more Christian spirit in the Republican ranks. Only the narrow-minded and apaisish element regret his defeat.

Michael Davitt, says the Denver Catholic, has arrived in America and it is hoped that he will be able to be in Denver on St. Patrick's day. The Hibernians are preparing to give him a great reception, and the Single Taxers are not far behind in their enthusiasm.

Get in our World's Fair contest.

RECENT DEATHS.

The tidings which brought notice of the death of Mary Elizabeth, the infant daughter of Thomas and Annie Holden, at their home in Muncie, Ind., fell with sorrow upon their many friends in this city, where they are so well and favorably known. The remains were brought here to the residence of Matt Cassin, 1810 Bolling avenue, the funeral taking place Sunday afternoon. The bereaved father is a brother of Officer John Holden, of the local police force, and resided here for many years.

The funerals of two of Louisville's oldest and most highly esteemed citizens, Della Logan and Martin Treasy, both of whom died Thursday, will take place this morning. They were pioneer residents of Louisville. For many years Martin Treasy was prominent in local business circles and made an enviable record. He was the father of Thomas and James Treasy, who survive him. Mrs. Logan was the mother of Mike Logan, who was long a deputy under John R. Pfanz.

The funeral of Miss Mary Riley took place Monday morning from St. Michael's church, Rev. Father Sheridan conducting the solemn burial service. Miss Riley was well known and held in high esteem, and her death will be most felt by her aged mother, to whom she was a loving and dutiful daughter. While the remains lay at the home, 102 Second street, many friends called to take a last look and offer sympathy to Mrs. Riley in her bereavement.

The dread pneumonia caused the death of Miss Stella Marr, the nineteen-year-old daughter of William Marr, 1721 Maple street. She was a young girl who was loved by all her friends, and her early death is deeply deplored. Her funeral took place Thursday morning from the Sacred Heart church, and her remains were tenderly laid to rest in St. Louis cemetery.

Thomas Donovan, a former member of the police force, died Tuesday afternoon at the home of his father, Daniel Donovan, 1545 Bank street. He was always ready to assist a friend and among his associates he was greatly liked. His funeral took place Thursday morning from St. Patrick's church.

Last Saturday night God called home the spirit of Emmet Goering, the infant son of George and Annie Goering, 1205 Goss avenue. His funeral took place Tuesday morning from St. Vincent de Paul's church. For the bereaved parents there is felt the deepest sympathy.

The announcement of the engagement of Miss Anna McElliot, of this city, and John Marty, of Michigan, will be received with more than ordinary interest by readers of this column. Miss McElliot is well known and prominent in Irish and Catholic society circles, and has always been a recognized leader in the younger set. The groom-elect is a successful bucker and a man of means. Their marriage will take place after Easter, the date not yet being set.

Not to many these days is granted the happy privilege of celebrating a golden wedding anniversary. But a kind Providence reserved such a blessing for Mr. and Mrs. John Reilly, of 722 Zane street, who fifty years ago were united in the sacrament of marriage in the parish church at Elphin, County Limerick, Ireland. They left the Emerald Isle the same year they were married, and in 1855 came to Louisville, where they have since lived. For many years John Reilly was recognized as one of the leading contractors of the city, but now that his children are grown he is not actively engaged in the business. The anniversary was an event of no little interest in Louisville, and was the occasion of a great gathering of relatives and friends at the happy home on Zane street, who came with many valuable presents and expressions of good will. The old couple have four children and seventeen grandchildren living, and all were at the anniversary celebration. The living children are Corporal John Reilly, of the police department; Dave Reilly, with the Pullman Company; William Reilly, with the Louisville & Nashville railroad, and Mrs. S. W. Boardman, of Evansville. May they live to see their diamond jubilee is the wish of all who know them.

HINTS ON STYLE.

From Paris comes the rumor that all modish street frocks will be in smooth finish fabrics.

The corset is merely a large flat button or center, surrounded by one or more quiltings of silk, velvet, lace or what you will.

Pelerine collars somewhat resembling fichus in shape and often slightly draped in front are other exquisite lingerie additions to the coming season's sheer frocks.

On all the wool frocks the ornaments are usually made of silk and are most often set on either side of coat or bodice fronts, and perhaps connected by cords or several narrow looped bands or cords of the silk.

One might write a chapter about the fichu—but it is easier to write about it than to drape it. The apparently little accessory calls for careful and artistic adjustment, and in bungling hands loses much of its charm and coquetry.

The satins, though heretofore relegated to the matrons, are now considered suitable for the debutante wear because of their new suppleness and softness, but the crepe and voile de soie are undoubtedly more youthful, and even the taffeta seems more suited to a debutante wearer, though the fitness doubtless lies in long association.

Small buttons are applied lavishly to the spring street frocks, buttons covered with the frock material or with silk or velvet being much in evidence. Rosette buttons or ornaments, called by their French names corcades, are one of the recent innovations and are used effectively, not only upon street frocks, but also upon sheer mousseline.

Appropos of the dyed lace, the latest development of the sleeve frill craze is the use of fine lace frills dyed to the color of the frock in place of the white and cream laces or the lingerie frills. The same dyed lace may form jabots or other bodice trimming or indeed may compose an entire blouse to be worn beneath a coat, but cream lace or mousseline is usually introduced next to the face.

From the bodice with soft falling berthe and frill or voluminous draped sleeve, the round décolletage still keeps it vague, but it is modified by the delightful finish which our grandmothers knew as a tucker.

YOUNG LADIES

Arranging For Big Euchre and Dance After Easter.

Trinity Council Young Ladies' Auxiliary held a largely attended and interesting meeting Tuesday night, Miss Mayme Kieley presiding. They decided to resume their enjoyable functions again after Easter, and announce another euchre and dance for Wednesday evening, April 13. Special effort will be made to make this affair a memorable one, and for that purpose a large committee was appointed. Being Leap Year, the ladies may decide to introduce some new and amusing features for their gentlemen friends.

Two new members, Miss Nellie Schoo and Miss Mamie Schneider, were received into the auxiliary, and the applications of Misses Mary Lawler, Gertrude Kohler, Josie Lawler and Ella Snyder were presented. From now on for several months a steady increase in membership is expected. Trinity Ladies' Auxiliary has rendered valuable assistance at church bazaars, socials and other charitable affairs, and deserves encouragement. Besides it is of great educational benefit to its members, who have elegant parlors for their meetings, which generally close with musical and literary exercises. It is rumored that many of the ladies would like to enter one of their number in the Kentucky Irish American World's Fair voting contest. Any one whose cause they espouse will certainly make a great race.

EDWARD T. TIERNEY

Retires From Public Service
With a Splendid Record.

The retirement of Edward T. Tierney from city politics will be regretted by many. Mr. Tierney is a blunt man, but he was admired for his personal integrity and fidelity to duty. In what he conceived to be right he could not be made to change his course. Mr. Tierney has been in the City Hall for twenty-four years, though he is only forty-seven years of age. He was first a clerk in the City Tax Receiver's office and afterward was Deputy Auditor. For sixteen years he was City Auditor, having been elected to that office four times by the people. He was first appointed on the Board of Public Safety by Mayor Weaver and the second term by Mayor Grainger. Differences arose between the Mayor and Mr. Tierney, and the result was the enactment of a law allowing the Mayor to appoint and remove his executive boards at will. The Mayor will not reappoint Mr. Tierney. It was the understanding all along, however, that a Catholic would be appointed in Mr. Tierney's place and the Mayor will carry out his promise. Mr. Tierney, it is understood, will engage in business in Louisville for himself. He is a conservative man and ought to succeed well in almost any undertaking. Mr. Tierney has been ill at his home for some days, but expected to be able to leave Friday night to spend a couple of weeks at Hot Springs.

NEW ACADEMY SITE.

The Nelson County Record says the Sisters of St. Catherine's have bought the Isaac Curry farm, just west of Springfield, on which they will rebuild their academy. The purchase of this ground seems to have relieved doubts as to whether the academy would be removed from Springfield, and the people of the town are very much gratified that it is to remain with them. The railroad runs through the farm and will be of great convenience to the new academy.

STEADY GROWTH.

The Caron City Directory for 1904 is just out. It shows the population of Louisville to be 228,500, an increase of 6,642 over last year. This is the thirty-fourth consecutive edition issued by the Caron Company, and is of the same high standard that has marked the previous issues. Besides the 114,275 names there is much other valuable information in the book.

WELCOME VISITORS.

"Noisy" Bill Koster and "Hello" Bill Hughes, two of the best known letter carriers in the employ of Uncle Sam, were welcome visitors to our office this week. They have delivered the Kentucky Irish American weekly since the first issue, and say that at the rate its circulation is increasing they will soon have to make extra trips. Come again, boys.

FOR CITY DAD.

Many friends of Thomas Monahan, a popular foreman at the car works and a well known citizen of Jeffersonville, are urging him to become a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Councilman from the Second ward of that city. Should he enter the lists there will be a warm contest, with many chances in his favor.

FRACTURE MENDING.

Miss Mamie Shea, who fell last Friday evening at Eighth and Market streets and broke her arm, is still confined to her home, 824 West Market street. The injured member is mending nicely and the young lady hopes to be able to be out next week, though she will not have the use of the arm for some little time.

OREGLIA ONLY REMAINS.

Among the sixty-four living Cardinals, which is six less than the complete number, only one appointed by Pius IX. remains—Cardinal Oreglia. Sixty-one were created by Leo XIII. and two by the present Holy Father, Pius X., who will reach his sixty-ninth year next June.

When one woman tells another that she is still looking quite young it means that she is beginning to carry weight for age.

A Fixed Resolve.

Father Burke, the pastor of the country parish of St. Agatha's, was standing at the gate of the rectory watching the members of his little flock as they assembled for the evening's devotions, it being the beautiful month of May, so dear to all Catholic hearts. He had a pleasant smile and a kindly greeting for all, and as he watched the little children and grown people saluting him so kindly and respectfully as they passed he felt it would cause him more than one heart pang to leave the peaceful country, where all understood and sympathized with him, and to once more mingle with the city's busy throng.

Father Burke was intellectually a superior person, and it seemed strange his talents should be hidden in such a modest place as St. Agatha's, but working for the glory of his Master and doing all in his power to alleviate the suffering of God's poor, he had undimmed his strength, and the Bishop, feeling the church could ill afford to lose such a shining light, appointed him rector of St. Agatha's. The church was small but very picturesque, and now as the last rays of the setting sun kissed its stained glass windows and golden cross, and causing the ivy (which almost covered the little structure) to seem as if imbued with life, was well worth an artist's brush, and Father Burke as he looked around felt how gladly he would lie down to sleep in the silent churchyard when his "sands of life were run," under the shadow of the cross, and within sound of the Angelus bell, which tolled so sweetly another day spent in the service of the Lord.

His reverie was interrupted by a young lady of about twenty years, who certainly would win more than a passing glance. Combined with a face that was flawless, she possessed a charming manner, and Father Burke prayed daily for his child that the sometimes fatal gift of beauty might prove to her a blessing.

"Well, Marion, my child," he said with a smile. "Pardon me for disturbing you, Father, but may I speak with you after the devotions?"

Just then the bells started to peal forth their praise to the Mother of God. Father Burke said: "Certainly, my child, but you must hurry now or the children will think the organist is not going to put in an appearance."

He then entered the sacristy and Marion mounted the stairs to the choir, and immediately began the Litany of the Blessed Virgin, in which we will find the most beautiful music and poetry if we but stop and ponder.

After the exercises it was still bright, they being held at an earlier hour in the country than in the city. "Now, Marion, I am ready to hear you," said Father Burke.

"I wanted to know if you would consent to let me enter the convent the end of this month," a sad expression shadowing her face for an instant.

"Now, my child, are you fully convinced it is your vocation to become a religious? God forbid if it is I should be the means of keeping you from it, but a religious vocation is too sacred a thing to be trifled with. I fear it is self-love that moves you, my child. You are a romantic maiden, and think because Philip King has decided to become a priest it is but fitting you should consecrate yourself to God. Think well, Marion."

"Oh, Father Burke! the idea. I have completely forgotten Mr. King." "I am very glad of it, but suppose you remain in the world six months longer, and if, at the end of that time, you are of the same mind, I shall give my consent and blessing and thank God, but—" "My mind will be the same then as now," interrupted Marion.

"I hope so, but we shall see," said the priest.

One morning, about three months after the conversation with the kind priest, Marion remained after mass to practice on the large organ, a very fine instrument, a gift to the church from her uncle, with whom she lived, her parents being dead.

As Marion came out of the church she perceived a strange man talking with Father Burke. She tried to evade being seen, but Father Burke saw her and called her.

The priest introduced the stranger as Dr. Warren, "who has come to try our country as an elixir," he said with a smile.

Marion replied in a few well chosen words.

"Dr. Warren, Miss Ennis will introduce you to the younger ones of the parish and point out the different places of interest whenever you desire to see them," Father Burke said smilingly.

"I shall be very glad to have Miss Ennis as a cicero," returned the doctor. Marion excused herself and hurried away, saying: "The idea, as if I could do anything like that. I think Father Burke is very unkind. I shall have to play agreeable to a man when I long for the solitude of the cloister."

Dr. Warren became quite a favorite in the parish. Father Burke was not long in finding out his sterling qualities. A few match-making mammas tried to secure him for their darlings, but it seemed as if "Cupid's dart would never touch his heart."

Marion wondered how they managed to exist without him. He helped with the singing, took charge of a class of unruly boys, organized a baseball club, and in a word made himself generally useful.

One evening Marion sat thinking how lonesome it would be when he returned to the city, "but I must be careful or I shall begin to"—she broke off suddenly and burst into tears. "She did love him, and he, he was polite and kind, but that was all." God certainly was punishing her for her dependence upon herself. Marion was not the same after that. Father Burke noticed the change, but kept his peace.

Marion, on her guard, was very cold with the doctor, and she could see him avoid her, which did not give her any comfort. "Serves me right! What shall I do? I wish I had never seen him," she repeated a hundred times a day. One afternoon Dr. Warren told her he intended to return to the city the first of the next week.

"I thought if we could have a picnic how much pleasure it would give the children. Of course, I may count on your assistance, Miss Ennis?" he said.

"Certainly," returned Marion coldly. "I would do anything to give the children pleasure."

The day of the picnic dawned bright and clear, and all went merry as a marriage bell, but Marion seemed pale and preoccupied, so when Father Burke and Dr. Warren were busy arranging for a game of baseball she went to the swing that the doctor had put up for the younger children's benefit, and resting her head in her hands, she let her thoughts wander to the evening when she was so anxious to enter the convent. "Surely God's ways are not our ways, and Father Burke understood me better than I did myself," she said.

A roguish little lad came up behind her and said: "May I push you, Miss Marion?"

"Yes, yes," she answered, not knowing in the least what she said.

The boy gave a push, and not having a hold on the ropes, Marion was thrown with force on the ground.

The child was thoroughly frightened and ran with all speed to where Father Burke and Dr. Warren were standing, crying: "Miss Marion is killed, she's dead."

Dr. Warren, without a word, ran to Marion and tenderly lifted her from the ground; she had fainted and he called for water in no gentle tones.

Marion opened her eyes, saw for the moment the arms that unconsciously held her, and then jumped from them, and, seating herself on a rock, burst into tears. Wise Father Burke took the children away and left the doctor with his patient.

At the end of an hour he returned and thought Marion looked uncommonly well for one who had been hurt, and said: "Are you better, Marion?"

"No—yes—I mean I was only frightened."

"I am glad, very glad, as Dr. Warren returns to the city tomorrow," he said seriously.

"No," said the doctor, "I have decided to remain."

"Ah, I see. Well, Marion, your six months are nearly over. Are you of the same mind?" asked the priest with a smile.

Marion answered blushing: "I still desire to wear the veil, but—" "It must have orange blossoms," said Dr. Warren.

THE MODEL HOSTESS.

An imperturbable calm and a ready tact are the two important factors in the making of a model hostess. Secure these and you need never fear for the success of any of your entertainments. There is no quality more to be desired to make a woman a social success than that of tact. Its possessor knows the right thing to do and the right time for doing it, and thus gains a reputation for cleverness and for many virtues which a tactless woman would never win from her circle of acquaintances, no matter how excellent her qualities of both heart and head. The tactful woman is not only a patient listener, but she is a thoroughly good one. She knows no weariness even when she has heard the same story more than once from the same person, and she smiles in the right place and appears to enjoy hearing jokes as much as her companion enjoys telling them. Tact is a weapon guided with a multitude of precautions and feminine wiles by the wise woman, and it is only the wise who possess it.

IRELAND.

Record of the Most Important of the Recent Events Culled From Exchanges.

At West Bay, Bridgeport, a man named Bartlett was killed by the fall of a cliff. A Dublin cattle dealer named Patrick Lynch was knocked down by a tram at Morecambe and seriously injured, from the results of which he died.

Savage French has sold his property at Ashgrove and Ballyelane, in the Great island of Queenstown, to his tenants at twenty-four years' purchase.

During an execution seizure near Maynooth a policeman named Farrell was shot in the body with a revolver by a farmer named Fagan, whose cattle were being seized.

The Government are arranging to strengthen the defenses of Cork harbor by increasing the supply of ammunition and the erection of two additional forts at Fennell's Head, at the entrance to the harbor.

The South Donegal Executive of the United Irish League has passed a resolution congratulating Redmond on the manner in which he has initiated the work of the Irish party in Parliament this session.

Patrick Murphy, Passage West, was presented with a certificate from the Royal Humane Society at Passage petty sessions on Tuesday for saving the life of a child who fell into the water at the quay side in October last.

The Lord Lieutenant has appointed High Sheriffs as follows: For Belfast, Alderman Henry Hutton; Cork city, Henry Corby; Dublin city, Alderman William Coffey, Limerick city, James Flynn; Londonderry city, J. McFarland; Waterford city, T. Wittle.

The Right Hon. Hugh Hyacinth O'Rourke MacDermot, K. C., commonly known as the Prince of Coolavin, one of the best known of Irish barristers, died at his residence in Dublin in his seventy-fifth year. He was called to the bar in '62. He was Solicitor General for Ireland in 1885 and in 1886 and was Attorney General from 1892 to 1895.

The Congested Districts Board, having been communicated with by some tenants on the Palmer estate on the matter of the purchase by that body of the property for resale to the tenants, have replied that they are willing to do so. The property consists of the townlands of Banemore and Ballygarrett and is situated near Listowel. There is but one evicted tenant to be reinstated.

A man of the farming class named William Sheehan, of Kinnavea, aged about thirty-seven years, entered the licensed premises of Edward Ryan, Barrack street, Nenagh, at about 6 p. m., and three hours afterward he was discovered sitting on the kitchen floor, with his head resting against a barrel. Dr. H. F. Powell was sent for and on his arrival pronounced life extinct. The matter was reported by the police to Coroner Gleeson, who held an inquest, returning a verdict of death from heart failure.

At Cahir recently a young man named Fallon found his father, Richard Fallon, ex Sergeant, R. I. C., about seventy years of age, sitting in an unconscious state in a chair in his residence, on Market street. Before priest or doctor whom young Fallon appeared arrived the man had expired. Deceased was seen going about in usual health during the early afternoon, and the son, who was absent all day at Mitchelstown, found his father as stated on his return. It is considered heart disease was the cause of death. The police communicated with the Coroner, who did not deem an inquest necessary.

The solemn ceremonies of profession and reception to two young ladies who are giving up their lives to the service of God took place at St. John's Convent of Mercy, Balloonagh, Tralee. The lady who was received is Miss Julia O'Leary (in religion Sister Aidan), daughter of Michael O'Leary, Killiney, Castlegregory and the lady who took the solemn vows of profession was Miss Eileen Curran (in religion Sister Mary Gerard), daughter of John Curran, Dingle. The ceremonies were presided over by the Very Rev. Thomas Carmody, Dean of Kerry, and were witnessed by many visiting clergymen and friends of the young women.

MILLER'S VENTURE.

Jacob J. Miller, a former popular employee of the Ahrens & Ott molding department, has gone into the grocery and produce business for himself on the corner of Brook and Burnett streets, where he has a well equipped store. Besides he has a nice little cafe and something good to eat and drink at all times. Mr. Miller would be pleased to have his friends visit him and inspect his neat and cosy place.

CATHOLIC KNIGHTS.

Branch 54 of the Catholic Knights of America held a splendid meeting Wednesday night at their hall in Jeffersonville. Jonathan Thickstun, the Indiana State President, is a member of this branch, which includes many of the leading Catholics of Clark county. With the advent of fair weather the members intend to get to work and increase their number. That was the sentiment, at least, expressed by several who made short talks for the good of the society.

STATE THEIR CASE.

The local Federation of Musicians has issued a circular stating their grievance against the Avenue Theater. When visited by a committee from the union, for the purpose of effecting a reconciliation, the manager curtly informed the gentlemen that he was done with unions and wanted nothing more to do with them. If the working classes stay away from the Avenue Manager Shaw will change his mind or close the house.

BUCKINGHAM.

For next week's attraction the Buckingham announces its stellar company of the season. It is nothing less than Clark's Royal Runaways, a superb organization of burlesquers, strictly up to date. The olio is first class, and that's all that is to be said.

MASONIC THEATER.

For next week the Masonic Theater has secured an elaborate revival of "Under Two Flags," dramatized from Ouida's famous novel of the same name. The coming production is said to be on a more extensive scale than any offering of "Under Two Flags" ever seen in this city.

MACAULEY'S.

A success that is positive and evidently lasting has been achieved by "The Isle of Spice." Almost all the musical comedies that were originally produced in Chicago have been successes and draw large audiences wherever presented. The king piece of them all is said to be "The Isle of Spice." The merry musical entertainment will be presented at Macauley's by an excellent company of sixty people on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights and Wednesday matinee.

Pompadour taffetas and Louisines are particularly girlish, and are made up into the most picturesque of frocks trimmed in festooned flounces of net top lace and fluttering knots of ribbon and suggesting the days of Watteau and his shepherdesses.

HIBERNIANS.

What They Have Been Doing the Past Week—General News Notes.

Division meetings will be held on the three first nights of next week.

As many as can should attend the general meeting next Sunday night.

The ladies were disappointed Wednesday night because of the non-arrival of their paraphernalia.

A new division is in process of formation in Rhode Island, with a prospective charter list of fifty names.

At the last February meeting of Division 1 of Duluth five new candidates were initiated into the order.

There are 18,000 members of our order in New York City. The new hall to be erected by them will cost $250,000.

Division 19 of Providence balloted for nine candidates and received nine applications for membership at the last meeting in February.

The Hibernians of Montgomery, Minn., will celebrate St. Patrick's day by attending mass in a body and receiving holy communion.

A division of the order was organized recently at Norton, Canada. Father Byrne, pastor of the church there, was an interested spectator of the proceedings.

At a special convention of the Bristol County Board, held at Fall River, Mass., County President John McCarty was chosen delegate to the national convention.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of Duluth, Minn., gave an enjoyable entertainment before Lent, and as soon as the returns were made very kindly donated the money to the building fund of a new parochial school.

Ten propositions for membership were received and four candidates initiated by Division 9 of Providence last Sunday week. At the conclusion musical waters were served and a musical and literary programme enjoyed.

Mike Tynan has had considerable managerial experience during the past few weeks. All will admit he displayed good judgment in the selection of talent for the entertainment at Liederkranz Hall on the evening of March 17.

Last week Elks Hall, the largest society meeting place in St. Paul, was filled to overflowing with members of Division 4 of that city. Great interest is being manifested toward winning the highest prize offered by the State Board.

The Hibernians of Syracuse met in Elks' Hall on Washington's birthday, for which a patriotic programme had been arranged. The third degree was exemplified to a large class. National President Dolan was among those who delivered addresses.

Division 14 of Yonkers, N. Y., has a membership of about 200 men and $3,000 in the treasury, with a ladies' auxiliary of seventy-five members and a separate treasury of $1,400. There are about 5,000 people in that city who, it is said, can speak Irish.

The Irish Standard says the plans for the new Hibernian Hall building at St. Paul, as well as the articles of incorporation, are now nearing completion, and soon we may hear the glad tidings of the great work prospering after the ground is broke in the spring.

Rev. Father Clarke has been chosen grand marshal for the great parade in St. Louis on St. Patrick's day. Every parish in the city will participate. City Auditor and County President Fitz Gibbon will ride at the head of the Hibernians, who will constitute the largest division.

The smoker and informal entertainment given two weeks ago by Division 10 of Providence was a record breaking one. When President Dillon called the assembly to order there were upward of 500 people present. After a collation had been served and cigars distributed there were addresses, vocal and instrumental music, recitations and a boxing contest. The exercises came to a pleasant conclusion by the members and guests singing "God Save Ireland."
